Swissport chooses the Swiss lubricant manufacturer STRUB Swiss Tribology for the airports of Zurich, Basel and Geneva

In a multi-stage tender STRUB has prevailed in the final round of an international tender against several well-known competitors. The fourth-generation owner-managed family business is headquartered in Reiden, where the production site is located. For the first time, Strub can win the tender for the supply of lubricants and cleaners. These include the following products from the large STRUB portfolio e.g. Engine oils, Gear oils, Hydraulic oils, Antifreeze, Greases and Pastes as well as AdBlue, which are manufactured at the production site in Reiden.

Swissport is the world's largest provider of ground and cargo services in the aviation industry and operates its own maintenance workshops for its in-house motorized vehicle fleet (eg push-backs, baggage and freight cars, trucks, pallet trucks, etc.) at the airport locations in Zurich, Basel and Geneva, The services are also provided to other resident companies at the airports.

Swissport assessed a wide range of criteria's for this tender. The following was mentioned in a final discussion: "In all evaluation criteria, Strub was able to set itself apart from the competition or at least make an equivalent bid. The quality of the tender documents submitted convinced by professionalism and transparency. They are consistently conclusive and understandable. We are convinced that we have found the right partner in Strub + Co. AG. "

"For Strub Swiss Tribology, it is an honor and another milestone in the history of our family-owned company to supply lubricants and cleaners for ground and cargo handling vehicles at Zurich, Basel and Geneva airports," says Dominik Strub-Tiedt, CEO of Strub. "As a competent and reliable partner, we are proud to be able to supply the lubricants for a smooth and safe process."
